

FLOODING AND WATER – MANAGING THE RISK

A workshop and seminar for planners and engineers
RTPI Yorkshire in Association with Sanderson Associates

Wednesday 29th June 2011 commencing at 5.30 pm

Venue – Sanderson House, Jubilee Way, Grange Moor
Huddersfield WF4 4TD

Sanderson’s offices located in rural Huddersfield moorland country is accessed approximately 30 minutes drive time from he centre of Leeds - see detailed directions on reverse of this flyer.

Following on from Planning Policy Statement 25 (PPS25): 'Development and Flood Risk' in December 2006, the Environment Agency (EA) has provided updated Flood Risk Standing Advice (FRSA). The updated advice reflects policy contained within PPS25 and the EA role as a statutory consultee on flood risk matters. This seminar will bring this advice along with current practice up to the minute and add a planning policy perspective, a focus on Environmental Impact Assessment, the importance of FRA and environmental impact in the planning process and an engineering perspective, focusing on the Sanderson’s approach to these matters;

- 5.30 pm Registration – Coffee and refreshments
- 5.45 pm Chair’s Introduction – Bob Wolfe
- 6.00 pm Policy/planning perspective – Gary Cliff , Development and Flood Risk Technical Specialist, Environment Agency
- 6.45pm Environmental impact of engineering solutions, Jason McKellar, Associate Director, Sanderson Associates
- 7.30pm Q&A –Networking. Discussion and questions from delegates
- 8.00pm Chair’s closing remarks
